LOVE THEATRE?

Then it's time to think about joining us in the exciting world of community theatre at Shelburne's

Grace Tipling Concert Hall

Community theatre alive and well, and at its best!

About us

The Tipling Stage Company presented its first production, Neil Simon's Plaza Suite in October 2008 in the Grace Tipling Concert Hall, Shelburne. It is currently producing three plays per season.

The Grace Tipling Concert Hall is located in the Shelburne Town Hall. Designed by Frank Grant Dunbar, it was constructed in 1882 and, for more than fifty years, was the town's venue for both professional and community stage productions, and even movies in the days before television. In the early years, it was the home of the Quadrille Assembly, the Philharmonic Society, the Ladies Silver Trumpet Band and Dance Orchestra, among others.

When Grace Tipling, an eighty year resident of Shelburne died in 1992, leaving her valuable Bell Telephone stock to the Town of Shelburne, the money was used to renovate the hall and it was named in her honour. Today, it is a traditional small town theatre, with enviable acoustics, where every seat is provided an unhindered view of the stage, and wheelchair and elevator access.

Members of the Tipling Stage Company (TSC) are unpaid volunteers, governed by a formal Constitution and By-laws. Players must be members in order to participate in productions. TSC is a member of ACT-CO - Association of Community Theatres of Central Ontario - and selected productions are submitted for adjudication in competition with other member theatre groups. The primary objective of the company, however, is to provide desirable entertainment to the residents of Shelburne and the adjacent communities.

STAGE COMPANY

Sidney Bruhl, a successful writer of Broadway thrillers, is struggling with 'writer's block' when he receives a script from a student. Sidney recognizes the script - a thriller called Deathtrap - as a potential Broadway hit and offers to collaborate. He confides to his wife, however, that he intends to pass the script off as his own. The younger man accepts the offer. Suspense mounts steadily as the plot cleverly twists and turns to both thrills and laughter until the final, startling moments.

Orangeville Citizen February 19th 2009.

The Tipling Stage Company is making good use of local talent with their casting choice of nationally famed Eric Nagler in the lead role of the upcoming production of Busybody. He says of his upcoming role,

"On the one hand, the role was made for me; a bombastic, bumbling Chief Inspector, full of himself; on the other hand will I do the role justice? It is a bigger role than I have done, and live theatre is a lot more demanding than TV."

STAGE COMPANY

The tale of Jack, the family cow, the magic beans, the strange land at the top of the bean stalk and the giant's treasure has been told and re-told for many years. This localized version of the well-loved pantomime will thrill the kids and intrigue the grown-ups. Plus, it's great fun for the actors, too!

Orangeville Citizen October 9th, 2008

If the quality of this first production [Plaza Suite] is any indication, the Tipling Stage Company is in for a 'long run', and everyone in Shelburne can look forward with pleasure to their next production.

Orangeville Banner November 26th, 2009.

The Adventures of Robin Hood has plenty for adults and kids to enjoy, says director and playwright Denis Stephenson. "There's lots of colour with the costumes, lots of dancing, lots of comedy and, for the young people, lots of chases and audience participation."

STAGE COMPANY

When the first two guests arrive at the affluent home of the deputy mayor of New York City, for a tenth wedding anniversary party, they discover the servants gone, the wife missing and the deputy mayor in his bedroom covered in blood. Afraid of being associated with scandal, they make up lies and half-truths as the rest of the party guests arrive and, with each new arrival, the nonsense escalates until the police arrive.

Orangeville Citizen September 30th, 2010.

A Bird in the Hand is a hilariously funny comedy about marriage and relationships and is currently being performed by the Tipling Stage Company at the wonderfully intimate Grace Tipling Hall in Shelburne.

The play tells the story of old friends who try to recapture the romantic successes of their youthful days while struggling with mid life. Highlights of the show include laughable one liners throughout the performance from Perch the doorman, played by veteran actor Bev Nicholas.
